

VOTE YES ON MEASURE A — KEEP KERN COUNTY DECISIONS IN KERN COUNTY

When a seat on the Kern County Board of Supervisors becomes vacant, the choice of who fills it should belong to the people of Kern County, not a Sacramento politician. Vote YES on this measure to protect local control.

Under current law, when a supervisor's seat becomes vacant, the Governor of California can appoint a replacement — someone who may have never lived in Kern County, who doesn't understand our communities, our economy, or our values. That system removes accountability and undermines local priorities.

This measure changes that. By adopting a county charter, Kern County residents take back control, guaranteeing that vacancies are filled locally, either by the Board of Supervisors you elected or by a special election where voters decide directly. Either way, the decision stays here, where it belongs.

This is about accountability. Appointed supervisors should answer to Kern County residents, not to the Governor's office. Our communities — from Bakersfield to Tehachapi, from the Valley floor to the mountains and the desert of East Kern — deserve representation that reflects local priorities, not state political calculations.

This is about democracy. When voters elect a Board of Supervisors, they deserve a process that keeps power close to home. A charter gives Kern County the legal framework to govern itself on this critical question of representation. Local decisions deserve local solutions.

A YES vote costs taxpayers nothing. It simply ensures that when a seat becomes vacant, the people — or their locally elected representatives — decide who fills it.

Vote YES on Measure A. Keep Kern County in Kern County hands.
