

Compensation

Grand Jurors make a commitment to serve a minimum of 20 hours per week (a minimum of five hours a day, four days a week) for their term. They receive a stipend based on sessions each day. Grand Jurors are also reimbursed for personal vehicle usage at the prevailing rate per mile.

Complaints and Investigations

Any individual may submit a signed complaint to the Grand Jury. The complaint should include specific information, allegations, and support documentation. All complaints are acknowledged and remain confidential. Complainants are sent letters to communicate the action taken by the Grand Jury.

Complaint forms can be found online at:

www.kerncounty.com/grandjury

The Grand Jury also investigates public officials for:

- Charges of malfeasance (wrongdoing)
- Misfeasance (a lawful act in an unlawful matter)
- Nonfeasance (failure to perform a required act)

The Final Report

At the end of each term in June, the Grand Jury issues a Final Report to the Presiding Judge. This document consolidates the investigative reports prepared and pre-released throughout the year by the Grand Jury, including findings and recommendations. The Final Report is available to the public and media online at:

www.kerncounty.com/grandjury

Elected officials are required by law to respond to findings and recommendations contained in the Final Reports within 60 days of release. Other county entities must respond within 90 days.

Confidentiality

All Grand Jurors are sworn to secrecy and complete confidentiality as it pertains to complaints, witnesses, or content of investigations. This ensures the protection and privacy of anyone coming before the Jury with, or in response to, a complaint. No confidential information leaves the Grand Jury chambers.

COUNTY OF KERN GRAND JURY

Why Become a Grand Juror?

Each year nineteen volunteer citizens are impaneled from the community to serve as the Kern County Grand Jury.

The Grand Jury is an investigatory “watchdog” body created to ensure that the best interests of all the citizens of Kern County are being served by local government. The volunteers enter this service to learn more about the administration and operation and to ensure these bodies of government comply with fiduciary responsibilities and are governed effectively.
