Dear Kern County Resident,

As we approach summertime, Kern County is working hard to protect your public safety, local control and critical services even while Sacramento is making it more challenging for us to do so.

In the last 10 years alone, Kern County has lost $103 million due to Sacramento's decision-making and regulations. We must be self-reliant and address our own community's concerns and service priorities.

Community feedback is critical to better serving you – by prioritizing your needs in an uncertain economic environment.

This is why we want to hear from you. With your input, we can better plan for our next steps as the County convenes to address the budget. Please visit kerncounty.com to learn more about budget impacts on essential services and tell us YOUR priorities for keeping Kern County safe and self-reliant.

Sincerely,
Ryan J. Alsop
Chief Administrative Officer, Kern County
